COOKING TIPS

The Buschbeck Pizza Insert is great for cooking all types of pizza, however it is important to note that when cooking over an outdoor fire it is often difficult to control heat fluctuations.

Emphasis should be on experimenting with different fuels such as wood and charcoal, and trying a variety of temperatures to get a result that suits individual tastes.

Experience suggests that the fire should be lit with wood or charcoal and let to die down to glowing embers before inserting the pizza oven. This prevents the pizza stone from getting excessively hot and burning the pizza base.

Experiment and enjoy!
